

Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 21 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Rain overnight then becoming brighter later tomorrow.

This Evening and Tonight:

Mostly cloudy overnight with outbreaks of rain at times, mainly in the south. Drier to the north with some partly cloudy skies. Winds remaining light throughout.

Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Monday:

Monday will likely be similar to Sunday with some outbreaks of rain at times and partly cloudy skies, especially later on. Staying on the mild side as winds remain light. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Becoming windy on Tuesday and Wednesday with outbreaks of rain. Turning drier later on Wednesday and into Thursday but with a risk of showers. Remaining largely mild.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.